OBJECTIVE

A management position responsible for designing, deploying, and managing an effective national or multi-national information security and/or data privacy program.

PROFILE

A 20-year professional expert in information security governance and data privacy compliance policies. Developed and implemented classified information guidelines for all FBI international offices. Has conducted thorough information investigations and privacy risk assessments; has established and operated security awareness programs and written policies in compliance with regulations and laws.

Sees possibilities where others see problems; is an innovative, critical, and original thinker. As a problem solver, organizes concepts and ideas to improve productivity, always looking for a better way to work. Communicates well cross-functionally, establishing collaborative relationships with business and technology partners. Challenges self and others to continually improve personal competence.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Was given the responsibility for information security for FBI foreign offices in 56 countries. Developed a new monitoring and maintenance system for all FBI information in international channels, classified and unclassified. Reduced the number of improper information incidents.
- Independently took the initiative to represent the FBI as part of the U.S. Government panel which negotiated sharing of classified intelligence between the U.S. and Japan. The Japanese National Police Agency endorsed the U.S. Government initiative as a result.
- Developed an information security awareness and education program to insure that FBI personnel who travelled internationally properly handled classified information. Established computer based training and a written syllabus to explain the proper handling procedures during foreign travel.
